

Florida under attack and seems to lose its governor and sovereignty

Prophetic Dream, by Greg Lancaster

In this prophetic dream there was an attack of some sort coming from the Gulf Mexico. It was as if we were preparing for a coming battle, but it happened a lot sooner than was expected. All of a sudden battle ships were in the Gulf of Mexico. Suddenly those in Florida started running north (like leaving Florida going into Georgia and Alabama, crossing the state line was the significant part). There was a steel safe they were trying to get the governor of Florida in before the enemy took him, but the walls to the steel safe room closed up before he got in the room (closing without anyone or anything in it). I then saw the state papers (like constitution) being handed north.